Voices of the Exhibition industry

“Exhibitions and events are not just trade-developing forums but also great places for people to connect, meet, greet, and do business. On this Global Exhibitions Day 2023, we are glad to see that exhibitions and events are back in full form, serving every industry, and delivering strong economic and social benefits besides supporting the entire value chain. With businesses becoming more responsive to protect the environment, the exhibition and events industries are also moving towards sustainable models and minimizing carbon footprint.”

Voices of the Exhibition industry

“Exhibitions have time and again proven to be a great enabler of trade and economic development across the globe. India, with its growing economic prowess, is being favourably looked upon as one of the key emerging exhibition markets by the global exhibition industry. Global Exhibitions Day is being celebrated to showcase the impact of exhibitions not only to enhance industrial trade but also to support people and environment. As we move ahead, we need to bring together every stakeholder of the exhibition industry to create better business experiences, and work responsibly to protect our environment by adopting latest technology and sustainable best practices.”
